

The Magic Weaving Business

Finding the heart of learning and teaching

17th June 2011, 10:00-15:30

Norwich Professional Development Centre

“Sir John Jones will lift your spirits, make you laugh and embolden you to change the rules and raise your game! John helps you remember why you became a teacher and the kind of magic that being a teacher or being taught by a great teacher can be”

Andy Hargreaves, Boston College

Sir John Jones is an inspirational and transformational speaker (knighted for services to Education) and is a distinguished educationist and ex Headteacher. He spoke powerfully at Norfolk Headteachers' Conference (2010) and is now returning to enable Norfolk teachers to hear first hand his important and moving messages.

Sir John explores issues of social justice and challenges participants to think about why some children get better chances than others. He shares stories about people who make a difference to children's lives and gives practical ways forward.

Some questions he tackles include:

- What difference do teachers, mentors or parents make?
- Why do some teachers/mentors/parents succeed and others don't?
- Is there some kind of magic involved?
- Can anyone do it?
- What skills need to be learned?
