

The Leader of Norfolk County Council issues a challenge to all Norfolk Schools in the Olympic Year 2012.

The Leader's 2012 Challenge

Every child in Norfolk has the right to expect a high quality entitlement and experience in physical education.

I have had the pleasure of not only presenting schools with their awards but also visiting some of them and seeing the quality of their provision in person. The 53 schools in Norfolk, who have so far achieved this award, have shown a huge commitment to providing an excellent entitlement and experience for their pupils. This figure represents 13% of all our schools and includes a Pupil Referral Unit, Special Schools, Infant and Nursery Schools, Junior Schools, Primary Schools and High Schools – in fact every type of maintained provision. This is great news for pupils in Norfolk.

I would personally like to encourage all schools in Norfolk to accept the challenge of putting in a bid this year – what a great way to celebrate 2012 with your school receiving the recognition for the quality of the PE provision offered to all pupils. Can you achieve this prestigious Award?

Energising your school by celebrating high quality PE could start your focus on the inspirational events happening in London in the summer. In rising to this challenge, you will show the children and young people in your school how much you not only value PE but an active and healthy lifestyle and the Olympic values. Teachers can also engage in the Olympic Conference planned by NIEAS on April 27th where workshops will share how staff can use the magic and inspiration of the Games. Booking Ref: EPQJ7/A (Cost: £60 or 2 for £100)

I hope that you will accept my challenge and submit your portfolio this year and I look forward to presenting our latest schools with their well deserved plaques and certificates at the High Quality PE Celebrations on March 2nd here at County Hall, Norwich.
