The Big Schools' Birdwatch

is a simple bird survey for all ages and abilities that takes place during the first half of the spring term. This free activity only takes one hour, is rich in curriculum links and is the schools' counterpart to the Big Garden Birdwatch. This is the world's biggest birdwatch and has been run annually by the RSPB for over 30 years.

"We used the birdwatching as part of our science work, analysed the results in maths, did some creative writing about garden birds and are doing an assembly about it too!"

Primary teacher – Twynrodyn

"Yet again, the children in my class have thoroughly enjoyed the birdwatch. There are so many different activities that can be linked to this project and it really grabs the children's interest."

Primary teacher – Letchworth Garden City
