...about Signalong...

Signalong is a sign-supported communication system developed for use with children and adults who have communication difficulties. Founded in 1992, the Signalong charity works throughout the UK and internationally, promoting and teaching its communication techniques. Visit www.signalong.org.uk for further information.

...about the course...

The 15 hour foundation course develops skills to enable participants to successfully use sign-supported communication in their own environment and includes elements of communication theory. Led by an accredited signalong tutor, the course aims to give participants the theoretical and practical knowledge and skills to become confident and competent Signalong users.
