

An Introduction to Wildlife Photography

A one day workshop using close up and macro techniques will be taking place at Holt Hall, Environmental & Outdoor Learning Centre in July. The objective of the day is to provide a clear understanding of how to achieve the best results when photographing a range of subjects both indoors and outdoors using a digital SLR.

As well as photographing animals and plants in the beautiful grounds of Holt Hall there will be an introduction to studio techniques, including set building and how to provide authentic looking backgrounds for indoor photography.

Mike Stew LRPS, will lead the course which will run from 10am until 4.30pm. The cost is £50 per person and places are limited to just six participants each day. Dates available: 16 July, 30 July
