The concert will include Southern 'white' gospel, traditional negro spirituals, the lilting melodies of Stephen Foster, and the more modern cadences of composers such as Aaron Copeland. Instruments will include mandolin, violin, harp, cello, flute, keyboard and organ. The Wensum Chorale, professional tenor Stephen Miles, soprano Meg Starling, organist David Lane, and up to twenty local musicians and singers will take part. Specially featured will be a twelve-year-old violinist who has composed a special 'Jig for Holt'.

The benefit concert is organised by Alan Heath, a native of Tennessee but long resident in his adopted North Norfolk.
