

PRESS RELEASE (31-8-11)

Norfolk Teachers in O2 Learn £100,000 National Final!

Norfolk schools learnt today that two of their teachers had reached the final of the O2 Learn National Educational Video Competition. More incredible still is that the two teachers actually have two of the eight videos in the final. They still have to defeat the six other teaching teams from other parts of England but our teachers (Mr A and Mr C) believe they can win for Norfolk.

Sprowston Community High School in north Norwich is buzzing with excitement where Mr John Allerhand is Head of Humanities and where Mr Cordeaux is Head of Year 7. "The students have been absolutely fantastic" said Mr A "and have really connected with the humour and the complexity of the thinking in the videos". The two films have been used in many local schools to support GCSE revision but Mr C added that he really wants the students to make their own videos. "If we win the competition then the £100 000 will help finance a multi-media complex for the students and will provide a foundation for the new sixth form at Sprowston" .

How can they win? "It's a bit like The X Factor" said Mr A "because half of the points come from a panel of experts but the other half comes from a public vote". Mr C stressed that the Norfolk duo are only pushing one of their videos. It's called "THE REINCARNATION SONG" and they want everyone in Norfolk to watch it. Just google "o2 Learn" and then select Mr A and Mr C's video on the homepage. Sing along with the hilarious rapping teachers, check out the Norwich scenery and see how you get on in the revision quiz at the end. "If you enjoy the video then please register with O2 Learn and vote for THE REINCARNATION SONG".

When can we vote? The public vote starts at midnight on Tuesday September 13th and ends on Tuesday 27th September. Each person has only one vote and so it is important to make the vote count. "We believe we have the best video in the competition" said Mr A "but we now need the people of Norfolk to get behind us so that we can help make the dream of the multi-media complex become a reality for all students at the school." The results of the competition will be announced in Norfolk on 14th October. Come on Norfolk!
