

not just a stage

Some of you have already expressed an interest in our training session on Tuesday 15th November. Please find details of the session below & further info about how you can also be involved in the regional / national project by clicking here.

Free Training Session for Schools Staff, Youth Workers, Facilitators – Tuesday 15th November, 4.15pm – 6.15pm at The Garage, Norwich

This FREE training session is for teachers & youth workers who work mostly with 13-16yr olds & are interested in developing young people's creative writing and performance skills. It is an open session so no experience is necessary, just an interest in finding out more!

Renowned slam facilitator and poet coach Jacob Sam-La Rose will lead the session specifically for teachers and youth workers to develop confidence and skills in supporting young people's learning and creative expression through poetry.

This is part of Shake the Dust, an exciting and inclusive national youth slam that will bring together young people, teachers, youth workers and spoken word artists in an explosion of performance poetry around the country to coincide with the London 2012 Olympics. It is being co-ordinated nationally by Apples and Snakes, a development organization which stretches the boundaries of poetry in education and performance, by inspiring participation and giving voice to a diverse range of dynamic spoken word artists.

The Garage & Writers Centre Norwich have been selected to coordinate the regional activity for the East of England.

To book your place on the training session please contact The Garage, Email: takepart@thegarage.org.uk or Telephone: 01603 283 382

To find out more about the project visit www.shakethedust.co.uk

www.thegarage.org.uk