

It's just three days until the world's first virtual, global march, the Big March 2012, sets off.

Almost one million people from thousands of organisations worldwide have signed up. We will all be speaking with one voice this Thursday, 1st March, calling on the UN to protect children worldwide from bullying.

Make an even bigger impact on the Big March 2012 by:

- joining your fellow marchers in the Big March Park, with fun tents from Facebook, Barry M, Stardoll and more.
- reading our blog, featuring interviews with Big March partners like Nominet Trust and Diginete, and young people's work.
- inspire those around you to join the Big March 2012 - download our special toolkit of social media text today.

The cast of Hollyoaks, Dani Harmer (who plays Tracy Beaker) and Diabetes UK have just joined Stephen Fry, MTV and Girlguiding UK, as supporters of the march. They join thousands of organisations and individuals on our global movement.

There will be so many voices speaking as one that the UN will simply have to listen to us.
