

Poster Competition

A creative competition for Norfolk schools

About Victorian Nights:

From 18 - 20 May 2012, the North Norfolk towns of Cromer, Sheringham and Wells-next-the-Sea will be transported back to the Victorian Age, a significant period in North Norfolk's history, as it heralded the coming of the railways and marked North Norfolk as the popular holiday destination for tourists it remains today.

Participating venues in the three towns will be opening their doors after-hours for a packed programme of free events to entertain and amaze. The programme features Victorian fire eaters, escapologists, a Victorian photo parlour, fairground attractions, circus acts, a steam train ride, cottage craft workshops, film, guided walks and the chance to meet lots of costumed characters. Most events are drop-in, but some must be pre-booked.

The festival is part of the national Museums at Night campaign, the annual after-hours celebration of arts, history and heritage. The campaign is co-ordinated by Culture 24, a not-for-profit online publisher, working across the arts, heritage, education and tourism sectors.

The initiative is the work of eight cultural organisations across the three towns: Cromer Museum, RNLi Henry Blogg Museum, Cromer Preservation Society, North Norfolk Railway, The Mo Museum, Sheringham Little Theatre, Sheringham Preservation Society and Wells Maltings. The project is being co-ordinated by Laura Crossley, a freelance museums and heritage consultant.

Victorian Nights Schools Programme:

Victorian Nights is primarily an event for local communities. We would love for schools to get involved in the festival by participating in our dedicated Schools Programme.

The programme includes:

- Poster competition
- An education pack which takes the festival into schools via Victorian-themed activities for pupils in Key Stage 1 – 3. The pack will be available for free to schools. If you would like to be sent a hard copy education pack, please contact Laura Crossley on victoriannightsnorthnorfolk@gmail.com
