

A Free Event to Support Latin for Primary Schools at Norwich Castle

“Milites audite” (soldiers listen) and “milites procedite” (soldiers advance) barks the Roman centurion as he drills his new recruits

Norwich Castle Museum are holding a special day for primary schools who are studying (or considering studying) Latin. Children participate in four active and challenging sessions designed to introduce Latin, consolidate their learning and bring Latin to life. During the day they meet a Roman soldier and other costumed characters, handle real Roman objects, use drama to improve their Latin and explore the museum's Roman gallery.

'It was brilliant! ' KS2 student

'A fantastic day, I enjoyed as much as the children' KS2 teacher

Friday 22nd June, 10-14.15

This day is aimed at KS2 children. If you are considering introducing Latin this is an excellent taster session. If you are presently studying Latin it is a great opportunity for your students to consolidate their learning.

We are pleased to offer the day free of charge to Norfolk primary schools, courtesy of a grant from Classics for All.

For more information and to book please contact Claire Dollman, Bookings Administrator on 01603 493636, claire.dollman@norfolk.gov.uk

Colly Mudie
Museum Learning Manager
www.museums.norfolk.gov.uk