

Farm Visits and Projects

Norfolk Farm Education Link promotes and supports school farm links through

- helping to link schools and farms,
- providing grants towards the transport cost of the visit (usually somewhere between 25% and 30%)
- it's curriculum linked resources loan collection (including incubator and brooder sets)

NFEL is based at Easton College and more information can be found on the School Farm Links section of the college website www.easton-college.ac.uk including a downloadable leaflet about all aspects of school visits to farms.

It's not too late to arrange a farm visit for after half term.

Moya Myerscough, Farm Education Co-ordinator at Easton College has a list of farms in Norfolk that welcome school groups, many of them are free visits. Please e-mail schools@easton.ac.uk giving your school name, telephone number and something about the sort of visit you would like to make. The transport grants are paid after the visit on forms provided by the farmer but returned to us here at Easton College when completed.
