GLOBAL CITIZENS – Learning for Sustainability and Global Education in EYFS and KS1

Norfolk Integrated Education Advisory
Services (NIEAS)

Audience: Teachers, Learning Support Assistants, EY Practitioners and Head Teachers

Context: In the Primary Phase we believe that children need a combination of outdoor learning, global dimensions education and Learning for Sustainability to build towards a Sustainable School. For many schools outdoor learning is now well established in the EYFS and KS1 but global dimensions perhaps less so. This course is offered to support practitioners with a plethora of ideas for how to embed global and sustainability learning with our youngest children. Judith Merrill will take a participative approach to learning throughout the day with an abundance of hands-on sessions which share tried and tested activities.

This course will help delegates:

- Examine where global references are already embedded in their teaching
- Explore what global dimensions and sustainability look like at EYFS and KS1
- Examine themes that incorporate global dimensions
- Look at the potential use of books,
- photos, artefacts and stories in global and sustainability education
