

Jigsaw Programme

Working towards the prevention of exploitative relationships amongst children and young people.

The programme has three strands; Jigsaw Education Programme, Jigsaw Parents and Jigsaw Professionals. The Education Programme provides interactive sessions in schools, youth groups and other settings for 7 year olds up to those in college and further education establishments. We explore topics around grooming both on and offline, healthy relationships, sexting, internet safety and cyberbullying so we can raise awareness on these issues and help children and young people to stay safe.

The parent strand offers information for parents/carers who are concerned about these topics, particularly internet safety. We have delivered information sessions in schools and other locations to help parents/carers to be able to share information with each other, learn more about current technology trends that their children are using and where to get further support and advice. We work across Norfolk. Last academic year 89% of 2014 children and young people said they had learnt something from the lessons. Due to our current funding for this programme we are generally able to offer these two strands to schools free of charge.

"Thank you so much, this helps us stay safe." Year 8 student.

Finally the third strand is aimed at professionals who are working with children, young people and parents/carers. We offer three training courses; 'An Introduction to Child Sexual Exploitation', 'Child Sexual Exploitation Awareness Course' and 'CEOP Think u Know course'. The third course is delivered by an Ambassador of CEOP from within our organisation. We can deliver these courses in house or in multi-agency settings and our costs are very reasonable.

"Once again many thanks for all of the time you have taken in helping our school become a safer place for our pupils." Headteacher.

Schools will be able to access some elements of the Jigsaw Programme for free. For more information please contact the Programme Co-ordinator, Sara Plastow on 01603 610256 or jigsaw@magdalenegroup.org
