

The index for inclusion - brokering a shared language for school improvement

A 'schools improving schools' action research project is taking place in Norfolk during 2013-15 funded by Norfolk County Council

18 schools have volunteered to become index forums and will host a school improvement meeting half termly for 2 years, inviting a set number of schools from its locality. Schools will discuss their own improvement using the shared language of the index for inclusion. An additional index forum piloting materials for the Early Years and FE has also been set up.

The activities of the schools within the index forums will be captured as action research and the impact of the index measured in partnership with schools, LA representatives and Professor Tony Booth (author of the 3rd edition.)
