

The Primary Education Debate: Maths in FOCUS

You are warmly invited to attend

Event at UEA: Saturday November 30th.

Keynote speakers will include:

Derek Haylock (Author of best-selling 'Mathematics Explained for Primary Teachers');

Jess Edwards (Founder of The Primary Charter);

Ralph Manning (Lecturer in Primary Maths Education) and local teachers, Kathryn Burgess and Tim Handley.

Teachers and interested parents are warmly invited to attend this conference. It will take place at UEA starting at 10 a.m. and finishing at 3.30 p.m. The cost is £35.00 per person including lunch and refreshments.

The Primary Education Debate is intended to consider some of the concerns that teachers, academics, children's authors and others have expressed about the current reforms in education. We see this conference as part of a national conversation during a year when teachers are planning for the new curriculum for 2014/15. Our keynote speakers will be presenting their views on the current reforms and the implications for teachers in the Primary phase - in particular in relation to the Maths curriculum.
