Knowing risk, being safe:

Royal Life Saving Society accredited course

Using the Royal Life Saving Society (RLSS) Water Safety Awareness module as a context for developing confidence in recognising and managing risk.

To help meet OFSTED requirements regarding developing risk awareness in our young people, this course will support practitioners in all aspects of water safety awareness.

Delegates will take part in both theory and practical activities around water safety, covering a range of environments.

Delegates will consider how these principles can be applied in the classroom to raise children's awareness of safety and related risk management.

Delegates will be contacted nearer the time with joining instructions. A self study unit will be sent in advance. This is an accredited course through the Royal Life Saving Society.

Date and Time:	07/11/14 from 9.30 am - 4.00 pm
Venue:	Whitlingham Outdoor Education Centre
Cost:	£165
Course Ref:	EPHD3
