Are you ready for Circle Time?

Improving learning, improving outcomes

Learn how to deliver high quality Circle Time to enhance learning outcomes.

Along with essential learning across PSHE, the Sutton Trust research highlights that social and emotional learning is a crucial area to develop and raise attainment. Circle Time is much enjoyed by children and adults alike and is a proven approach to teaching and learning in these important areas.

This twilight course will be delivered using practical approaches and will equip delegates with the skills to plan, deliver and assess the impact of high quality Circle Time. Sample lesson plans will be provided which cover a range of topics as well as other materials to support Circle Time in your school.

By the end of the session delegates will:

- know what high quality Circle Time is and what it aims to do
- know why social and emotional development impacts upon attainment
- through practising Circle Time approaches, be confident in transferring this back in school.
