Inspiring Writers Through Digital Literacy

Challenge students to think like a journalist and use social media platforms to write for a real audience and purpose.

We have recently completed 12 months of a Sports Journalism pilot targeted at improving literacy of pupils in Key Stage 3. Evidence showed that pupils were highly engaged in taking on the role of 'trainee reporters' and made significant progress.

Now we are offering you the chance to learn how to use journalism and an innovative online platform to engage reluctant writers in your own school.

'To have been involved in Supporter to Reporter has been truly fantastic. There's been that wonderful moment when suddenly the students get it. They have developed a love of using language whether in the written or spoken form'

Assistant Principal, Open Academy

Your day will include a series of workshop-style sessions based on:

- Blogging and report writing,
- The practicalities of setting up a safe social learning platform to enable your students to recognise the achievements of others and promote literacy throughout the whole school.

All delegates will be provided with a free scheme of work mapped to the new KS2 and KS3 curriculum and ready-made resources focussed on improving spoken language and writing skills.

Date and Time: 24/04/2015 from 9.30 am - 4.00 pm
Venue: Norwich Professional Development Centre
Cost: £165 per delegate
Course Ref: TLS-0415-T015
