Inspiring Literacy in the Outdoors

How to use the outdoor environment as an inspiration to develop the primary English curriculum.

This course provides delegates with a programme of carefully linked ideas and resources that can be adapted to their pupils and immediately transferred to their own school grounds. They will work alongside other teachers and school practitioners, the specialist primary English Adviser and Environmental and Outdoor Learning Team colleagues to explore and trial a variety of activities. The day will also involve delegates exploring a number of evaluation techniques that will enable them to assess the impact of the approach/activities on learning - with reference to the new curriculum and OFSTED framework.

Objectives:

- Be able to use the outdoor environment to support the primary English curriculum
- Gain a number of ideas for activities to do with children that inspire them to develop their literacy skills in the outdoors
- Experience a range of interactive evaluation techniques that can support you to judge the impact of your session on pupils' learning
- Be made aware of existing good practice, resources and further support
- Explore the beautiful grounds of Holt Hall Environmental and Outdoor Learning Centre.
