Best practice, best behaviours: a toolkit of key skills for Midday Supervisory Assistants

An enjoyable lunchtime will best ensure your pupils are 'ready to learn' in the afternoon.

MSAs are the 'front line' staff at lunchtimes and as such need to feel confident and empowered to best ensure positive behaviours from pupils along with optimum 'ready for learning' attitudes for afternoons back in the classroom.' Ensure lunchtimes reflect the culture of your school and that pupil and MSA voices speak positively of their lunchtime experiences.

Delegates will reflect on their current practices and will contribute to a practical workshop to further build and develop their tool kit of skills. A range of proven and effective approaches to positive behaviour management will be explored along with opportunities to share effective practice and to learn from fellow MSAs.

- understand the importance and impact of positive interactions with pupils
- know which approaches are best suited when responding to a range of behaviours
- have a firm understanding around positive communication and high expectations of behaviour
- identify next steps in own practice

Attendance at this training would be a suitable use of Pupil Premium funding.
