

Literacy through Geography

Outstanding English AND Geography in one lesson!

Course Outline

A hands-on day in the beautiful surroundings of Holt Hall where we share ideas for embedding reading, writing and communication in your geography teaching.

We all (including OFSTED) want to see our pupils develop into curious, interested learners. We know that children find real-world learning motivating. Embedding the teaching of literacy into your Geography lessons can therefore be a very happy marriage!

The day will be a series of practical sessions, including a fieldwork session where we have a go at some outdoor geography activities that help to develop literacy skills.

This course is brand new to Norfolk. Some recent comments from teachers who participated in this course in London include:

“Great ideas for lessons and fieldwork and great links to literacy”
“Practical ideas that are quick and easy to implement. Spot on!”
“Excellent balance of activity and theory”
“Full day packed with useful activities/ideas to use in school as well as theory relating to National Curriculum”

This course will be based outside at Holt Hall for large parts of the day so delegates need to bring walking boots or sturdy shoes/trainers that you don't mind getting muddy, indoor shoes, warm layers, long trousers, waterproof coat and trousers, hat and gloves.

By the end of the course participants will:-

- understand how geography can support and enhance literacy
- discover a range of geographical activities that will help pupils to develop their literacy skills
- discuss and share ideas for developing literacy through geography with other primary teachers
- find out how to develop useful resources that support outstanding geography and literacy.
