

The Next Great TA Training Day

Course Outline

Teaching assistants are a highly valuable resource in any school and this course will upskill your TAs in a range of areas considered vital for effective work and support for pupils. Alongside continuing to develop TAs' confidence as essential practitioners, key aspects of their role will be addressed.

Areas covered will include positive communication and language, developing skills in questioning for learning, effective feedback and marking and developing behaviours for learning in small groups. The TAs will construct their own action plan to inform their continuing development back in school.

This course is a continuation of the last year's very successful The Great TA Training day, however the course would also be suitable for those who did not attend last years course.

By the end of the course participants will:-

- grow in confidence and understand the importance of their role in relation to pupil's learning outcomes
- develop skills in effective feedback, the use of questions, and supporting behaviours for learning in small groups
- construct an action plan to support their continuing development back in school
