

Doctorate in Educational Psychology (EdPsyD)

UEA is pleased to introduce its latest Professional Doctorate in the School of Education and Lifelong Learning, the Doctorate in Educational Psychology (EdPsyD).

This new course is the recognised qualification in England, Wales and Northern Ireland to become an Educational Psychologist.

An award at the highest academic level, this Professional Doctorate is full-time and three years in length.

- Do you want to make a difference to the lives of vulnerable children and young people?
- Would you like to acquire the skills required to conduct your own research?
- Are you interested in a fulfilling career as an Educational Psychologist?

One of just 13 universities in England to offer this programme, this postgraduate training course will begin in September 2018.

- Applications are now open now for both government funded and self-funded places.
- The closing date for government funded places is 6 December 2017 at 5 pm (the funding organisation must receive completed references by 29 November 2017 at 12 pm).

To find out more about the course, entry requirements, fees and funding, and how to apply, please visit the EdPsyD course pages on the UEA website.
