This training will explore developmentally appropriate approaches to teaching and learning, building on the foundations laid in early years.

We will discuss how curriculum can be 'covered' and mastered through a well planned environment, real life opportunities and self-initiated activity as well as through direct instruction. There will be an introduction to an Enquiry Based Learning approach. Teachers will be encouraged to create their own action plan, dedicating time to professional dialogue and writing a shared vision.

This course is for KS1 teachers and phase leaders who have started to develop new approaches to teaching and learning in KS1.
