
Are you a school with an interest in mental health?

A chance to try out mental health education programmes + £1000 for your school!

The Anna Freud National Centre for Children and Families is looking for secondary schools to take part in their 2019 - 2021 Education for Wellbeing research programme to implement and evaluate a range of mental health interventions for school pupils in years 7, 8 and 9.

Commissioned by the Department for Education, this exciting programme aims to evaluate pioneering ways of supporting the mental health and wellbeing of school pupils.

We are looking for schools who want to improve the mental health and wellbeing of their pupils to work with us, one of the UK's leading evidence-based children's mental health charities.

Some of the benefits for taking part include:

- Free mental health and wellbeing training from mental health professionals for selected school staff
- £1,000 remuneration in recognition of administrative commitments
- Providing your pupils with wholeclass mental health and wellbeing programmes with support from leading experts in child mental health

To apply and to find out more about school eligibility and requirements, please visit: www.annafreud.org/education-for-wellbeing

Any enquiries can be sent to educationforwellbeing@annafreud.org

Deadline for Expressions of Interest is 5th April 2019.
