Arts in Education

Thinking of Applying for Artsmark?

Auditing existing arts provision in your school is an important first step towards improvement in the arts. The audit process will be helpful to all schools and particularly those schools considering applying for Artsmark, which is a national award which recognises and celebrates good arts provision.

Participants will:

- be able to lead the process of an audit of provision in the arts in their school
- understand the key principles of Artsmark and how the award will be beneficial to their school
- feel confident that they can make an application for an Artsmark award that communicates and celebrates the best of the provision for the Arts in their school.

This course will be led by an Artsmark validator and Project Team member, Margiold Ashwell.

Course Leader: Marigold Ashwell is a Drama and the Arts Education Consultant. She is Associate Tutor in Drama at the School of Education, University of Reading and a QCA and LEA consultant. She was County Drama Inspector/Adviser for Berkshire and is an Ofsted Inspector. She is co-author of Progression in Secondary Drama (Heinemann,200). Refreshments will be provided.
