Thinking History and Geography

Exciting developments in teaching and learning have come about through the creative application of Thinking Skills. Improvements in pupils' self-esteem and motivation to learn have been identified through action research. Above all, Thinking Skills are designed to encourage children to think more about how they are learning.

This course is designed for teachers wanting to find out more about Thinking Skills and explore their practical application to learning History and Geography in the primary and middle years. It will include elements of last year's course 'Thinking Geography'.

Refreshments and lunch will be provided.

Your Course Leader is Sandie Sykes.

Cost: £115.00
