Leading and Managing Staff Development and Training in Schools

There have been many national changes in the area of continuous professional development (CPD) over recent years - advanced skills teachers, performance management, national training for headteachers and aspiring heads - to name but a few. This course is for managers in primary/middle schools tasked with leading or co-ordinating staff development and training.

By the end of the course, participants will:

- have an overview of national changes in the area of CPD and the Norfolk LEA CPD strategy
- know how CPD links to the Norfolk Self Review Framework and Ofsted inspection framework
- be made aware of some of the implications of these national and local requirements upon their role as CPD/INSET co-ordinator
- be aware how they might monitor and evaluate the impact of CPD upon school improvement and development.

Refreshments will be provided.
