

Instrumental Tuition in School

The contribution that instrumental lessons make to school is significant and outstanding BUT there may well be times when the administration and organisation of it all can seem more than it's worth.

This course will address the following:

- writing a School Charging Policy
- purchasing Instruments
- what size should the teaching groups be?
- what is the legal position about missing school curriculum lessons?
- who insures the instruments?
- is the instrumental teacher part of the school staff?
- are the pupils really making progress?
