23/5/2006	8.45 - 3.30	The Forum and Norwich Castle	6MN033

This course will look at using venues outside of the classroom to develop mathematics in different contexts. It will allow delegates to think creatively about ways of integrating mathematics across the curriculum to children's learning experiences beyond the school gates.

Programme for the day will include:

- Mathematical Activity

- Pizza Express

An opportunity to take part in the pizza making experience offered free to school parties

- St Peter Mancroft Church

This will provide ideas that could be used in any local church

- Norwich Castle

Mathematics hunt that has been devised by the mathematics team to highlight the possibilities for developing maths in any historic building/museum

- Guest Speaker

Whilst the planned element of the day will conclude at 3.30pm, there will be an opportunity to extend the castle visit until 4.30pm should you wish. The pizza that you make in the morning will be the main course for lunch. Those with any special dietary requirements please state this when you book.

The aim of this day will be to provide participants with a range of different contexts for mathematical thinking, similar to the aim of the annual Norfolk Mathematics Conference which will not be part of the INSET programme this year.
