Parents as Partners
Putting the EYFS into Practice

Parents are children's first and most enduring educators. When parents and practitioners work together in early years settings, the results have a positive impact on children's development and learning.

every child matters
a brighter future for Norfolk's young people

This training is aimed at all practitioners working with young children in early years settings.

This is part of a series of courses to enable practitioners to put the new EYFS into practice.

This course will support practitioners in developing a rich partnership with parents to support their children's development and learning.

The course will explore:

- How parents already influence their children's development and learning
- Why we need to work with parents
- Ways in which information can be shared with parents and practitioners in other settings
- How to establish a productive partnership that will support children's development and learning as identified in the EYFS
- Ways to develop your partnership with parents through action research and share this information with other participants

Training Provider: Constance Tyce & Helen Banks - Educational Consultants

Course Length: One day with a half day follow up session. You must attend both sessions.
