The introduction of Teaching and Learning Responsibility Points (TLRP) brings about a radical change to the way that teachers are paid for their management responsibilities, in that TLRPs will replace the current Management Allowances.

The overall responsibility for the change remains with the full governing body, but a committee may be delegated the responsibility to work with the headteacher to:

- produce a draft structure,
- undertake the required consultation process with staff,
- refine the proposals accordingly
- get final approval from the full governing body prior to 31 December 2005.

Headteachers received training on the new system during the summer term, and the above dates are those available for similar governor training. The venues are big enough to accommodate large numbers of governors, as it would be beneficial if 1-2 governors per school attended, but it will be on a first come, first served basis.

For those not able to attend, further information, including the necessary documents and timelines, is available on the GSS website at: www.norfolkesinet.org.uk
