

Kick for CLIC

Calling all Youth Football Clubs, Schools, Association and Youth Groups!!

Leading children's cancer charity 'CLIC' are urging youth football clubs, schools and youth associations across the UK to take part in their new and exciting national event, 'KICK for CLIC,' to be held in June 2005, raising money for children with cancer and their families.

Kick for CLIC, supported by ECCO school shoes 4 kids, Chelsea and England star, John Terry and ex England Football Hero Gary Lineker, is a simple ball-kicking event where families and friends can sponsor children per ball kicked, per goal scored or simply by taking part in whatever way meets the needs of the children at your club or school!

Even better still not only will your club or school receive FREE FOOTBALLS to use for your event but you will also get to keep 25% of the money you raise! Kick for CLIC is a fantastic chance for children to join together and have fun in a healthy way whilst raising money for their club/school and children with cancer at the same time!

Five families are told their child has cancer or leukaemia every day in the UK. From that moment on their lives will never be the same again. Most children will survive, some will unfortunately die, but the scars on the family will remain. CLIC's role is to try to help these children and their families cope and keep life as normal as possible.

CLIC recognises the extreme pressures placed on families when a child is diagnosed with cancer or leukaemia and works towards meeting the financial, practical, emotional and clinical needs of those children, helping to keep families together when the unimaginable happens.

With 50 schools taking part in our pilot event in 2004, we are looking for over 500 clubs and schools to join us across the UK in 2005, raising £200,000 for CLIC!

Register now and your school will receive your free Kick for CLIC event pack, including footballs, balloons, sponsors forms and lots, lots more!

For more information and to register ring 08451 20 22 32 or visit: www.kickforclic.org.uk

School Shoes 4 Kids @ School

"CLIC has joined together with Sargent Cancer Care for Children to become the UK's leading children's cancer charity, supporting children with cancer and their families across the UK."

Calling all special schools!

Leading children's cancer charity CLIC - Cancer and Leukaemia in Childhood, are urging special schools and clubs across the UK to take part in their exciting 'KICK for CLIC' event, to be held in June 2005, raising money for children with cancer.

Kick for CLIC, kindly supported by ECCO shoe's back to school range and Dick and Dom of CBBC, is a simple ball-kicking event where families and friends can sponsor children per ball kicked, per goal scored or simply by taking part in whatever way meets the needs of the children at your school!

Even better still, not only will your school receive 10 FREE FOOTBALLS to use for your event but you will also get to keep 25% of the money you raise! A fantastic chance for children to not only join together and have fun in a healthy way but raise money for their school and children with cancer at the same time!

Five families are told their child has cancer or leukaemia everyday in the UK. From that moment on their lives will never be the same again. Most children will survive, some will unfortunately die, but the scars on the family will remain. CLIC's role is to try to help these children and their families cope and keep life as normal as possible.

CLIC recognises the extreme pressures placed on families when a child is diagnosed with cancer or leukaemia and works towards meeting the financial, practical, emotional and clinical needs of those children, helping to keep families together when the unimaginable happens.

With 50 schools taking part in our pilot event in 2004, we are looking for over 500 schools to join us across the UK in 2005, raising £200,000 for CLIC!

Register now and your school will receive your free Kick for CLIC event pack, including footballs, balloons, sponsors forms and lots, lots more!

For more information and to register ring 0845 20 22 32 or visit:
www.kickforclic.org.uk