

Action for blind people

The Sunflower Power Challenge

This is your school's chance to get involved in a nationwide sunflower growing competition that has the power to teach your pupils about the natural world whilst helping blind and partially sighted people all over the UK.

Sunflower Power really is simple yet great fun and a highly effective learning tool - the pupils in your school plant sunflower seeds and ask their parents, friends and relatives to sponsor them.

“Children loved the fact that within 1-2 weeks the seeds had started to grow - they could see quite quickly that they had been successful in growing a plant.”

What's more, your school can choose to keep half of all money raised!

Yes, that's half of all proceeds right from the very first £1! Just imagine what your school could use the extra funds for - garden and sports equipment, tapes and bird hides, or quiet areas outside for children to relax in...

The remainder of the Sunflower Power sponsorship you raise will go towards helping to give blind and partially sighted people the same kind of life chances and opportunities that many sighted people take for granted.

‘It made parents and children aware of others who are not as fortunate as us with the gift of sight, and the response was above expectations’
