Head for the Future:

the new programme that replaces LPSH

Free TASTER SESSIONS

Head for the Future* is a new headteacher development programme from NCSL that builds on and replaces the successful Leadership Programme for Serving Headteachers (LPSH) for all new candidates with immediate effect. Any headteacher with 3 or more years' experience is eligible to apply.

Head for the Future, designed collaboratively between NCSL and the Hay Group, retains all the best elements of LPSH – the feedback and diagnostics, the practical models of leadership and the debate with other heads. The new programme has been developed to directly tackle the emerging challenges facing headship, particularly the need to collaborate with other schools and agencies. The increasing variety of different models of schools each with its own ethos and set of challenges places new demands on their leaders. Head for the Future asks each participant to challenge their own perceptions about the change and outcomes they require, keeping a clear view of what their particular context demands.

How will it affect you?

This new programme is a fast paced and challenging blend of feedback, stimulating debate, demanding reflection and commitment to action. It is an honest mirror of your impact on others and will help shape your leadership for years to come. As there is a sharp focus on how you help others to grow and to take initiative, the programme represents an investment in your school's capacity as well as your own.

If you have already completed LPSH, you are eligible to apply for Head for the Future

Head for the Future which builds on the best of LPSH, is highly relevant and accessible to all headteachers provided they have three years or more experience as a head. Past LPSH participants are therefore welcome to apply.
