

Creative Careers come to Norwich...

Opportunities for future visual artists, actors, dancers, music producers, journalists, film makers, editors and much more.

Creative Careers Fair

Sunday 13th May 2007 10am-4pm at The Garage

Don't fancy wearing a suit and working 9-5, but not sure what else is out there? This free event is your chance to talk to professionals from the creative industries about how to get started and get information on education and training opportunities.

Through talks and workshops you can find out what it's like behind the scenes of Harry Potter, bring along your work for tips from our resident visual artist, have a one-to-one singing surgery, take part in a dance workshop, tour the BBC studios and have a go at presenting with ITV Anglia.

Meet the people who do the jobs you are interested in and find out more in our question and answer sessions, including journalism, running a record label and make-up for stage and screen. There will also be opportunities for Arts Award participants to complete part of their award at the event.

Organisations attending will be on hand to offer advice and guidance in many areas including dance, theatre, writing and publishing, visual arts, education, training courses, puppetry, events, design, television, radio, music, new media and film.

To register for updates and reminders visit www.creativecareers.org.uk

A full programme of talks and workshops is available at www.thegarage.org.uk