Improving Behaviour and Well Being in Schools

Monday 26th November 2007 - Central London

Developing a secure and stable learning environment for children is essential. They should feel safe in their schools and leave with the necessary social and emotional skills to succeed in the wider world. The reduction of anti-social behaviour and the development of emotional well being are key steps towards achieving these goals.

If children are happy, comfortable and confident they are less likely to become disruptive and involved in anti-social behaviour. The Social and Emotional Aspects of Learning scheme (SEAL) has been successful in improving behaviour in primary schools throughout the country. This academic year will see the phasing in of Secondary SEAL providing a perfect opportunity to examine lessons learned and also to look ahead to making improvements in the future.

This Capita Conference will examine the link between anti-social behaviour and emotional well being in schools. Delegates will have the chance to hear examples of best practice in ways of improving behaviour and the latest developments in promoting well being.

Sponsorship and Exhibition Opportunities

Briefing

Successful Peer Mentoring in Schools

Tuesday 27th November 2007 - Central London

Peer mentoring schemes offer children the chance to confide in and share their feelings with their peers and with the people with whom they feel most comfortable.

A successful peer mentoring scheme can address and help to resolve issues of bullying, behaviour, transition, attainment and attendance. Setting up and sustaining a successful scheme will take a lot of hard work and time, however the rewards can be substantial and really improve the school experience for children.

This half day event will give delegates the chance to engage first hand with methods that can be used to establish and sustain a successful peer mentoring scheme.

Benefits of attending

- Hear from new peer mentoring initiatives launched throughout the country
- Understand the wider benefits a successful peer mentoring programme can bring to children's behaviour
- The opportunity to hear direct feedback from schools involved in peer mentoring pilots throughout the country
