Accessibility2.0: A Million Flowers Bloom

(The only Web2.0 and accessibility conference in 2008)

Listen to the pre-show podcast -

AbilityNet's Kath Moonan and Robin Christopherson discuss this red-hot area and look forward to the event (MP3 - 15m - transcript available).

Google's research scientist T.V. Raman: "I would like to congratulate AbilityNet on putting together this event - it's something that is much needed by our field. Here is the challenge for all of us: the web has evolved to become a universal application platform and we have collectively innovated with respect to main-stream users - now it's time to apply the same level of innovation to achieve every-person access."
