3.30 Keynote Speech - Co-morbidity and overlapping conditions with DCD

Guest speaker: Professor Amanda Kirby

The child with “just” DCD is an unusual one as most children with DCD often have attention, reading and social difficulties at varying degrees. This presentation will discuss the evidence for this statement and the implications for both health and education professionals in designing and delivering support for children, adolescents and adults with DCD. Latest research in this area will be presented.

5.00 Closing Remarks - Sally Payne, Dyspraxia Foundation Chair

CHOICE OF WORKSHOPS

Delegates may chose to attend one workshop for each session

Session 1: 12.00 - 1.00pm

1 a) Strategies to improve self esteem

Workshop leader: Professor Amanda Kirby, Medical Director and founder of The Dyscovery Centre

This workshop will consider many practical ways to encourage and improve a child's social confidence. It will consider the home -school partnership and the importance of a 24 hour curriculum for children and how this needs to be considered. It will also offer an opportunity for participants to discuss key issues around this topic area and share their experiences and successful approaches.

b) Intervention for the young child with DCD

Workshop leader: Dr Mary Chambers, University Senior Lecturer

This workshop will look at the identification and assessment of young children with movement difficulties and will discuss the use of the Early Years Movement Skills Checklist in this process. It will also consider the effectiveness of intervention programmes for young children.

c) Working memory in DCD children: screening and support

Workshop leader: Dr Tracy Pakiam Alloway, Senior Research Fellow

This workshop will provide an introduction to what working memory is and how it affects children diagnosed with developmental coordination disorder (DCD). DCD children tend to have specific deficits in visuospatial working memory. This impairment affects their learning, even after their IQ skills have been taken into account. Details of early screening and support will be discussed.

Please note: This workshop is repeated at 2.00pm.

Session 2: 2.00 - 3.00pm

2 a) Intervention programmes for the classroom for children with DCD

Workshop leader: Dr Mary Chambers, University Senior Lecturer

This workshop will look at developing activities for young children with movement difficulties that can be used in the classroom.

b) Working memory in DCD children: screening and support

Workshop leader: Dr Tracy Pakiam Alloway, Senior Research Fellow

This workshop will provide an introduction to what working memory is and how it affects children diagnosed with developmental coordination disorder (DCD). DCD children tend to have specific deficits in visuospatial working memory. This impairment affects their learning, even after their IQ skills have been taken into account. Details of early screening and support will be discussed.

c) Social Inclusion for children and young people with Dyspraxia/DCD

Workshop leader: Kate Ripley, Educational Psychologist

The workshop will start with a review of some of the barriers to social inclusion that children and young people with DCD experience over time. Some practical intervention strategies will then be presented.
