

DOCTORATE in EDUCATION

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION AND PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

University of East Anglia, Norwich

We are now recruiting to the fifth cohort of our highly successful Doctorate in Education (Ed.D).

Our 4-year, part-time Ed.D Programme is designed to provide in-depth understanding of a range of research methodologies. It is particularly appropriate for professionals and others wishing to research in training, professional development or education.

The aim is to develop critical perspectives and to provide first-hand experience of doing research.

It consists of five weekend study blocks and a ten-day summer school in years 1 and 2, and two further years of supervisor supported independent study towards the production of a doctoral thesis.

The UEA Ed.D is distinctive in that it offers:

- a taught programme supported by active, experienced researchers engaged in national and international research;
- the opportunity to pursue your own research focus;
- the opportunity to study with students from different fields of practice;
- regular tutorial and peer group support.

Next programme begins October 2004
Application Deadline is Friday 18th June

Further information is available from:

Sue Page

School of Education and Professional Development
University of East Anglia
Norwich, NR4 7TJ

Tel (01603) 592625

Fax (01603) 593446

Email sue.page@uea.ac.uk

Visit our website at:

<http://www.uea.ac.uk/edu>

Ed.D