Great British Art?: Meet the Curators for a Private View

Date: Wednesday 11th November 2009: 4 – 6 pm

Your chance to ask questions of curators on how a major exhibition is put together. The works of art in this exhibition illuminate key ideas of nationhood and identity that have inspired artists from 1750 to the present day. They comprise major loans from Tate Britain (Emin, Turner, etc.) and the collections of Norwich (Nash, Crome etc.). This exhibition is an introduction to a series to be shown at Norwich Castle till 2012 as part of a Heritage Lottery Fund partnership project entitled The Great British Art Debate.

Watercolour in Britain:

Date: Wednesday 3rd March 2010: 4 - 6 pm

A private view of this second Great British Art Debate exhibition which will be full of surprises, as well as the Turners and Cotmans you might expect from the title. Meet and talk to the Norwich University College of the Arts MA Drawing students, who will have a show alongside, about how they set about responding to the works of John Sell Cotman.

Art Masterclass

Saturday 12th June 2010: 10.30pm – 4pm

The Masterclass is led by local and international artist, Caroline Wright. Caroline is a practising artist, and Course Leader for MA Drawing at Norwich University College of the Arts. Caroline is interested in issues of communication, control and hierarchy within human relationships, through a range of media including drawing, performance, installation and lens based work. She has shown in galleries, theatres and festivals across the UK and internationally, including Arnolfini, Bristol and Visions Gallery, Tokyo. Suffolk Artlink recently published her Creative Carers, a project she developed to train carers of the elderly to deliver creative activity to their clients.

For further information on Caroline's work please visit:

www.carolinewright.com

The workshop is free to members.

Places are limited and booking is essential. (Bookings open in January 2010.)

This Network is a lively and focused group of art teachers – primary and secondary – from all over Norfolk. It aims to bring teachers, who are passionate about art, together with other like-minded individuals to reinvigorate personal artistic practice, share the rich resources of Norwich Castle, receive information about art-related events for schools and work with the museum to plan events and programmes of benefit to schools.

Membership entitles you to the following benefits:

- Free admission for members to Norwich Castle Museum and Art Gallery (on production of membership card)
- Free admission for your school if you book for an art-related visit or workshop
- Two free functions at Norwich Castle Museum and Art Gallery offering events such as privileged views of the museum's exhibitions, behind-the-scenes tours and lectures on aspects of the collections
- An annual masterclass with a professional art specialist, on a first come first serve basis (generously supported by EAAF)

There is no joining fee. Membership is renewable annually. For details email michelle.sorensen@norfolk.gov.uk or phone her on 01603 493660.
