

Climate Change Interactive - for action NOW!

The British Council is working with BBC World Class in the build up to the UN Climate Change Conference, Copenhagen, 7-18 December. One of the projects is to find out about young people's experiences of extreme weather - and what they think about climate change.

We are asking young people to respond to four questions, and answers will then be displayed on an interactive map on the BBC World Class website. The BBC might also follow up on some of the answers, if they want to find out more information. The questions are on the BBC World Class website now!

Teachers will need to collect the answers from their students and email them to BBC World Class, together with the name and location of the school, the age of pupils taking part, and whether they are partnered with a school in another country. Teachers will also need to confirm that the headteacher gives permission for the BBC to publish the pupils' answers. It's as simple as that... and it's all on the BBC World Class website:

http://www.bbc.co.uk/worldclass/projects/climate\_change\_interactive.shtml

We're planning for the interactive map to go live the week before Copenhagen, so please can schools to send in their replies to the questions as soon as possible.

Mrs Kit Byford
Project Delivery Manager
World Links - China
British Council
10 Spring Gardens, London, SW1A 2BN, UK
T +44 (0)20 7389 4431
F +44 (0)20 7389 4426

Creating opportunity for people worldwide
www.britishcouncil.org